For legal reasons, we generally do not complete questionnaires or queries via portals, as these often contain obligations that go beyond the legal requirements, which require extensive examination and cannot be easily ensured.

In accordance with the legal requirements derived from EU Directive 2016/943, the LINNEMANN GmbH team is fully informed about the objectives and instructed on how to deal with business secrets via a work instruction.

When processing transactions, we receive and record data of various kinds. All LINNEMANN employees are instructed in the handling of data and are obliged to use it carefully and confidentially and to store it securely. Data is only passed on to third parties if this is necessary for the specific process. LINNEMANN qualifies its data protection processes through the QA officer and coordinates them regularly, also with an external data protection officer.

All incoming and outgoing goods are carefully stored, packaged and dispatched by selected partners that we trust. This also applies to samples that we receive from customers or partners.
